Devplans Website

Introduction

This website is like a brochure or a resume for a company. It shows what a company does, what they have done before and what makes them special. It's like a way of introducing the company to others and saying "Hey, this is what we do, and we're pretty good at it".
This website is already released on air, to test it we are going to perform the exploratory test because the version is already on air and we don't have much time to write STP and STD documents and also to know the website better for feature releases.
